Dedication...

We, the Class of 1945, in humble gratitude, wish to thank our parents for the sacrifices which they have made in order that we might complete our high school education. Throughout the years they have cared for us and guided us to the best of their ability. We know that it has not always been easy for them. We are aware of the fact that we can never fully repay them for what they have done in the past and will do in the future. However, we wish, in some way, to show our affection and appreciation. We, therefore, consider it an honor and a privilege to be able to dedicate this book to our Best Friends, Our Parents.

*Ah, fading joy! how quickly art thou past!
Yet we thy ruin haste.
As if the cares of human life were few,
We seek out new;
And follow fate, that does too fast pursue.*

*See how on every bough the birds express,
In their sweet notes, their happiness.
They all enjoy, and nothing spare;
But on their mother nature lay their care.*

*Why, then, should man, the lord of all below,
Such troubles choose to know,
As none of all his subjects undergo?*

*Hark, hark, the waters—fall, fall, fall,
And with a murmuring sound
Dash, dash, upon the ground,
To gentle slumbers call.*

—JOHN DRYDEN

Alma Mater

Tune: "Juanita"

*Thy sons are loyal,
Courageous, true, and strong,
Hear them supporting thy cause in song.
On the field of contest thy task is never done,
Until, draped in glory, the strife is won.*

*When all seems darkest and our hopes seem to be gone,
Fight for our high school; put the pressure on.
With undying spirit, strive to even-up the score,
And when the game is ended, have victory in store.*

CHORUS

*Our school, Bellingham High School, keep thy banner waving high,
So that, down through the ages, her fame shall never die.*

Foreword...

Within these pages we have tried to preserve the things which have been dear to us during our school years.

We have had many happy moments with our schoolmates whom we shall always remember.

The guidance and teaching of the members of the faculty have strengthened our minds and prepared us for the day when we enter into the educational or the working world.

As we say "Goodbye," we realize—

*" 'In that sweet mood when pleasant thoughts,
Bring sad thoughts to the mind,'
How sweet it is to attain our goal,
But how sad to have to leave behind
The joys and pleasures of our high school days."*

"Let's bring New Glory to Old Glory
The Flag of our America.
Let us show the world a big parade of
Men who have the stuff
That heroes are made of."

To my favorite "Miss" Flo, I love you more than...

FLORENCE L. PERREAULT

"FLO"

"Smile with an intent to do mischief"

Flo is everyone's pal. Her happy-go-lucky manner and "pep" make her an amusing companion. She has shown her exceptional roller skating talent at our different skating parties. We can easily see why she interprets L. S. M. F. T. as La Salle Means Fine Technique. We will often remember how Flo and Jack tried to outdo each other in making "witty" remarks. Always keep your sense of humor, Flo!

Favorite Song: "Always"

Favorite Saying: "Swell"

CONSTANCE L. REMILLARD

"CONNIE"

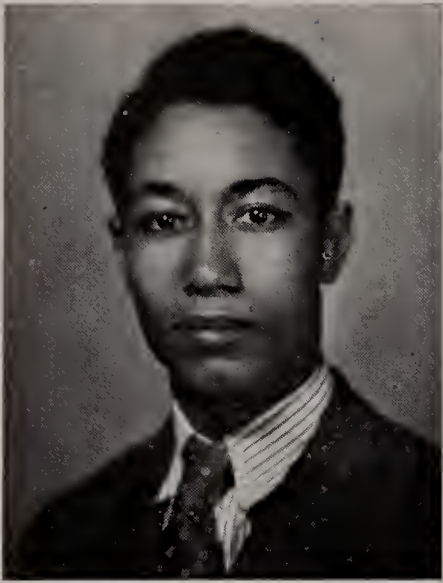

"A companion who is cheerful is worth gold."

Connie, "Pee-Wee" of the Senior Class proves the saying that good things come in small packages. When you see a group of girls having a good laugh, you can "bet" that Connie is in the middle of the group. She is a faithful supporter of all school functions. ALBERT F. DORVAL

"AL"

A Salute to our Merchant Mariner! Al, as always, is working hard and getting to the top. Again, we give a Salute to our Merchant Mariner! !

Junior Highlights

ELIZABETH PETROSKY

It was a bright September morning when we eagerly entered the doors of Bellingham High School, to begin our Junior Year.

After greeting friends, both old and new, we calmed down and elected our capable class officers. They were Charles Delaney, president; Betty Petrosky, vice-president; Betty Skalubinski, secretary; Gerard Gregoire, treasurer; Marie Dore, Chairman of Activities. We were then introduced to our new class advisor, Miss Addante.

The first of our activities was the Hallowe'en Dance. We had a phantom orchestra and the hall was decorated with skeletons, cats and witches. Refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed by everyone. It was a great success and this was the start of an enjoyable and prosperous year.

We were all told that the junior year is the hardest and we all believed this, especially when we were confronted with mid-year exams.

After being inactive in sports for two years, we were thrilled to have a basketball team. Many of the junior boys did their part.

What is a basketball team without a cheerleading squad? Two of our class members were chosen to be cheerleaders. Oh! we mustn't forget our comedy cheerleader, Adrien Marcet. He faithfully attended every game and helped to make them successful with his popular cheers.

In the middle of the year Miss Addante took over the Freshman Class and Miss Mathieu became our advisor.

After the mid-year exams, we were given a week's vacation. When we returned we were ready to work again. We started our plans for the "Junior Prom." The committees were elected and everyone had something to do. At last, that night came and we all looked our best in neatly pressed suits and colorful evening gowns. The hall was gaily decorated with streamers. We had flowers on the curtains and a flower garden in the center. This most important event of the year was a social and financial success.

After the Junior Prom the days seemed to fly and, before we knew it, our third year had ended. We are looking forward to another happy year together, and to those classmates, who are to become members of the Armed Forces, we wish the best of luck.

DONALD THAYER

AS the Sophomores flew into the High School on the morning of September the seventh, nineteen hundred and forty-four, the whole building shook with terror. Although we have been tamed a little since then, we are still known as the noisiest and most mischievous class in the school. This is especially true in the English Class. As a result, it is a common thing for two or three students to pay visits to Mr. Granger during that period. This is one of his biggest problems.

In October, the following class officers were elected: President, David "Flapjack" Tuttle; Vice-president, "pretty little" Jeannette Dubois; Secretary, Marshall "Busy" Cowen; Treasurer, Donald "Penny-pincher" Thayer.

Mr. Rocha was our first class advisor but, shortly after Thanksgiving, he was called back into the service. He was succeeded by Miss Downey.

November the seventeenth was the day chosen for our one and only social event of the year. The whole class "pitched in" and the auditorium was cleverly decorated in red and white. As Thanksgiving was near and turkeys were scarce, we thought we might make some money if we had a "turkey raffle" at the dance. The combined profits from the raffle and dance really increased our bank account!

We had much athletic and dramatic talent in our class. Beradi and Nadolny played on the Varsity and other sophomores played on the Junior Varsity. Our outstanding actor was "Nicky" Petrosky, who gave a magnificent performance of Scrooge at the Christmas Party.

Altogether, we sophomores had a very active year and we are eagerly looking forward to our Junior Year.

Freshman Events

SHIRLEY COWEN

WE, the freshmen, started our school term with plenty of enthusiasm, not realizing the dreadful days to come.

The first thing we did was to elect the following officers: President, Carlton Patrick; Vice President, Norman Garneau; Secretary, Richard Guyette; Treasurer, Henry Evers.

It was rather hard to get used to the bells. We were often wondering whether the bells were dismissal bells or whether they were fire bells. However, it didn't take us long to learn which were which.

The Seniors sponsored a Freshmen Acquaintance Dance. We will never forget the day of this event, when the Seniors initiated us. The boys had to wear bows in their hair and roll up their pants. The girls had to wear odd stockings and braid one side of their hair. We all wore very comical signs showing that we were Freshmen.

In January we took those frightening mid-year exams. We all thought, "Oh! I will be exempted from my exams." However, a notice on the bulletin board dashed away any hope which we might have had. The notice said that there would be no exemptions! !

The one social event which we were allowed to sponsor was a St. Patrick's Day Dance. We decorated the hall with shamrocks and other things symbolic of the day. We and our guests thoroughly enjoyed ourselves.

Now that final exams are over and we have nothing more to worry about, we say "au revoir" to our friends, until September. To Mr. Granger and the teachers, who helped us in every way, we wish to say "Thanks!"

MARCH 8, 1944—Learned that our favorite advisor, Miss Krasowska, was leaving us. Her place was taken by Miss Riley whom we all liked.

- JUNE 11, 1945—Had our class banquet at the high school auditorium.
- JUNE 12, 1945—Went on a class trip. It was a lovely summer day and we all had a wonderful time.
- JUNE 13, 1945—Class Day! We were all a little subdued as we realized how quickly the great week was passing.
- JUNE 14, 1945—Graduation Day! Imagine! We, the class of 45, had reached our goal!
- JUNE 15, 1945—Attended our last formal dance—the Senior Hop. When the dance was over we said good-bye to our classmates with heavy hearts. We realized that four of the best years of our lives were over. However, time can never dim our memory of the happy days spent in Bellingham High School.

Class Prophecy ★ ★ ★ ★

THE stars were twinkling brightly in the heavens up above as the fresh, cool air rushed through my open window. The night was so peaceful. I put my cap and gown away and took one more look at my diploma before I turned out the light and climbed into bed. Yes, I had finally graduated. I was both happy and sad—happy because I had graduated and sad because I had to leave all my dear friends and teachers. Many thoughts flashed through my mind before I finally drifted off into a deep sleep.

Then, all of a sudden, I seemed to be awake, but living in a different day and age. It was now nineteen hundred and fifty-five! Strange as it may seem, I fitted perfectly into this new pattern of life.

I arose and, going to the window, looked out upon a beautiful metropolis—the Bellingham of nineteen hundred and fifty-five. I dressed and then went downtown to do some shopping.

As I walked down through the busy shopping district, I noticed a beautiful blonde model, modeling in one of the store windows. It was unmistakably Doris Aldrich! As I went inside, she greeted me with a pleasant smile. We made plans to go out that night and renew our friendship which dated back to our years at Bellingham High School.

I left Doris and went busily about my shopping. First I thought I would buy some meat, so I went into an attractive little sausage shop. The pert little manager was Cil Collamati. During the course of our conversation she told me where I might find her inseparable pal, Audrey Carroll, who was now personnel director in a large department store. Audrey's efficiency and personality had carried her a long way in life. She was also married to her school-day sweetheart. I needn't say anymore. I'm sure you all know to whom I am referring.

My next stop was the bakery. I hadn't taken many steps before I came upon Remillard's Bakery. I knew that I would once again meet some of my former classmates. And sure enough, just as I stepped inside, I saw Claire busying herself behind the counters. While talking to her I learned that Connie was working for the Tetley Tea Bag Company.

As I was beginning to feel a little hungry, I thought I would stop at the next restaurant and have a snack. The aroma of French fried potatoes led me to Rock's Cafe. You could smell them all over town. I knew that someone from the Home Economics Class of nineteen hundred and forty-five must have been working there. Who else could fry potatoes like that? I saw Flo Perreault hustling about trying to take orders and cook at the same time. Finally she came to my table. What a pleasant surprise to hear that she was now Mrs. Rock and has quite a time raising the little pebbles and helping her "hubby" with the restaurant.

After finishing my snack, I went into The Giant Shoe Store. An attractive sign in the window read, "The best bargain and the biggest shoes—Proprietor, Jack E. Tuttle." I was greeted by that famous basketball center, "Jacky" Tuttle. After ten years, Jack still had his German clip. He gave me a sweet tap (or perhaps I should say slap) on the back and then tried to make a sale. I laughed more than once before I left. Incidentally, I didn't purchase a pair of shoes. They were all too large!

As I went into Lauraine's Beauty Salon, I could see Lauraine Leblanc's expert hands at work placing hair pins and curlers in her patron's hair. Her shop was the most exclusive shop in Bellingham. Only the cream of Bellingham society could afford to go there. It was a "feather in anyone's cap," to have Lauraine as a friend.

By this time I had just about completed my shopping chores and was ready to start for home. I hailed a passing taxi and discovered that Armand Pelland was the driver. I learned that he was not only the driver but also the owner of a flourishing taxi business. All of a sudden the taxi came to an abrupt stop! There was a crowd of girls, in bobby-sox, shouting and crowding around a figure who was trying to make his way across the street. At last the figure broke loose from the shouting crowd and made a dash for my taxi. He hopped in and told Armand to step on it. I took a good look at him and saw that it was Eddie Arnold. I said, "For goodness sake, what do they want with you?" Well, my friends, you guessed it; he was the Sinatra of nineteen hundred and fifty-five—that is, he was Sinatra with a little flesh on him and he was known as Eddie Swoonatra.

I left Eddie and Armand and went inside with my parcels. I had just taken off my hat when the phone rang. It was the former Gladys Lewinski making her daily phone call. She called me every day to exchange domestic troubles and town talk. In spite of her many household tasks and raising little "Jockos," she was always a faithful caller.

After hanging up, I picked up the daily paper which was edited by Bill Baisley and his "Busy Beetles." Bill had made the "Topper" one of the best newspapers published in the United States.

The picture of a "cute" blonde on the front page caught my eye. It was Gaby Croteau, who was appearing in the Bellingham production of the "Incendiary Blonde." Who ever thought that Gaby would someday be a movie star?

Another article gave quite a bit of attention to Jeannette Chabot, the fastest typist in the United States. Miss Mathieu can see that her efforts as a typing teacher have not been in vain.

Turning to the sports news, I saw Ted Marchand's picture and, beside it, in big black letters, the words, "Ted Marchand tops DiMaggio's record." Being a celebrated figure as well as Audrey's husband must have kept Ted quite busy!

After dressing, I turned on the radio just in time to catch Cil Levesque reporting for Jergens. She even showed Walter Winchell up. Cil's unique way of speaking fast but distinctly is her chief asset.

It was seven o'clock in the evening when I left. Just before Doris arrived, I had the pleasure of meeting Terry Mousseau. She saw me waiting for Doris and stopped to chat with me for a few minutes. Terry was now one of the head nurses on the staff at the Bellingham General Hospital.

I met Doris in front of The Fashion Wonder Shoppe, owned by Mildred Cowen. Doris told me that Millie was one of the country's foremost fashion designers. Millie's "chic" clothes were outstanding during school days.

We went downtown to the Mascanomo Club which is about equal to New York's Stork Club. Cad Balloway's orchestra was the featured attraction. When I got a good look at him I realized that he was none other than Danny Weston. He certainly had rhythm! It seemed good to see his fingers skim over the ivories while playing "boogie woogie."

The chorus was the next highlight. I'm sure everyone's attention was centered on one titian haired beauty, Virginia Brown. Later on, Virginia told us that she became too bored with the life of a secretary; so, she had gone into show business and was really "crazy" about it.

We had dinner and then left to go to Bellingham's Radio City, one of the most beautiful buildings in the country. Its architect was Luvia Cook, one of the country's foremost women architects. Her attentiveness in her "math" classes was one of the answers to her success.

As we were passing through the lobby, Doris and I met Murielle Brunetti. Murielle, now a script writer, was so much in demand that she didn't know which offer to accept.

After leaving her we went to see "Abie's Irish Rose." Much to my surprise, I found that Mamala was Beatrice Lataille. She hadn't changed a bit. Maybe she was a little more comical than before, if possible.

The Bing Rhodes Show was next on our list, I'm sure Bing offered Eddie quite a bit of competition. Bing was so famous that he was almost a tradition in the music world.

Suddenly, someone began to shake me. Then I heard someone say, "Wake up, it's nearly half-past ten." I opened my eyes and saw that the sun was shining brightly. It took me a few seconds to fully realize that my wonderful adventure had been but a dream. It was a beautiful dream that I shall never forget and I am sure that, someday, success shall come to each and every one of my classmates, as it did in my dream.

Prophecy

ON THE PROPHET

ON a cool September afternoon, as I was walking down one of the streets in Chicago and gazing at the window displays, I noticed a sign on which was written the following words: "Dottie Breen's Gym Studio". I stopped and wondered if this could be the same Dottie Breen whom I had known in my high school days. Dottie had been captain of the cheerleaders when at school and, knowing that she was also fond of athletics, I concluded that this must be the same Dottie. Determined to find out, I walked into the studio.

I was directed to the swimming pool and when I arrived there I recognized her immediately. She hadn't changed a bit! As I walked toward her she recognized me even though I was wearing the uniform of an Airline Hostess.

Dottie had been very successful and, as she showed me around the place, I saw that it was a very beautiful and well-equipped gymnasium. Dottie had two other instructors but she supervised everything herself.

As we talked, she told me that she had also studied art and had set up a small studio in her apartment. I wasn't at all surprised to hear this because I remember the clever drawings that Dottie did for our year-book back in nineteen-hundred-and-forty-five.

Dottie told me that she had been too busy to get married but, now that her business was well-established, she was going to be married in the near future.

I wished Dottie happiness and left with the feeling that she had used her many talents to good advantage and, in these past ten years, had taken a firm grip in a successful future.

Class Poem

By CONSTANCE REMILLARD

We, the class of "45"
Have finally reached our goal!
During the last four happy years,
We've combined both work and play.

Now we are graduating,
And as we look at the past,
We realize we wouldn't have made it,
Without the teachers who helped our class.

We wish to thank Mr. Granger,
The principal of our school,
Miss McCooey, our intelligent advisor,
Who taught us the golden rule.

We are leaving your safe portals.
As we say good-bye
To a school we love, we also say,
"God Bless Bellingham High."

Class Song

Words and music by
CLAIRE REMILLARD

Oh! Bellingham High,
We are leaving you.
We've reached our goal.
Oh! Bellingham High,
We'll remember you
And the things we were told.

In days gone by,
We have tried
To do the best we could.
Oh! Bellingham High,
We will always be
Indebted to you.

Chorus

Into a new world
We all will soon enter,
We have done our best
To enjoy our four years
At Bellingham High.
Now that we are leaving,
We wish to say "thanks"
To our teachers and our friends,
Who helped the Class of "45".

CLASS WILL

Be it well remembered that we, the most co-operative class ever to graduate from Bellingham High School, being of sound mind and body, on this fourteenth day of June, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five, do hereby make public this, our last will and testament.

To OUR SCHOOL we leave our appreciation for the education and perfect entertainment which it has given us.

To OUR PRINCIPAL, MR. GRANGER, we leave a pair of roller skates so he will be able to reach the noisy rooms more quickly.

To MISS McCOOEY we leave some Prestone so that she will be able to get to school on cold winter mornings.

To MISS ADDANTE we leave a newly tuned piano to encourage her in her work with the Glee Club.

To MISS KACZOR we leave top honors for her perfect personality.

To MISS LOMBARD we leave our "undivided attention."

To MISS MATHIEU we leave a shorthand class that will take dictation as speedily as we did.

To MISS BALLOU we leave a long list of dictionary words so that she may use them in her study periods.

To MR. HUTCHINSON we leave a room without a clock so that he only will know when the period is about to end.

To ALL THE FACULTY we, the Senior Class, leave our thanks and apprecaition for all they have done for us.

DORIS ALDRICH leaves her politeness and good manners to Lillian Guyette.

DOROTHY BREEN leaves a year's supply of pencils to Anna Jastrzembski so that she won't be running around from room to room trying to borrow one before short-hand period.

VIRGINIA BROWN leaves her title of best mannered girl to Jane Tuttle.

MURIELLE BRUNETTI leaves her "breezy" manner and endless supply of questions to Elizabeth Petrosky.

AUDREY CARROLL leaves her dramatic ability to Victor Denault.

JEANNETTE CHABOT leaves room five and the typewriters to Elizabeth Skalubinski.

For the benefit of next year's basket-ball team "CIL" COLLAMATI leaves her report card to Charles Delaney.

LUVIA COOK leaves her unbroken record of undotted i's and uncrossed t's to "Sarge" Rotatori.

MILDRED COWEN leaves her title of best dressed girl to Muriel Lamothe. We know Muriel will uphold the title.

BEATRICE LATAILLE leaves a conversation book to a certain junior boy so that after the next prom he'll be able to say more than "Goodnight, Bea."

LAURAINÉ LEBLANC leaves her clever hair-dressing ability to "Var" Nadolny. Perhaps, then, he and James Janizeski can rearrange each other's brush cuts.

CECILE LEVESQUE leaves her talkativeness to that quiet boy, Victor Glowka.

GLADYS LEWINSKI leaves her dancing and "jitterbug" ability to Marie Dore, in memory of the many times they swirled around the floor.

THRESEA MOUSSEAU leaves her habit of carrying a mirror in one hand and a comb in the other to Helen Bacon.

FLORENCE PERREAULT leaves her wittiness and sociableness to "Brass" Brunelle for he certainly could keep up where "Flo" left off.

CONNIE REMILLARD leaves her sense of humor to a few of the people who need it.

CLAIRE REMILLARD leaves her best wishes to the next Editor-in-Chief of the Epilogue.

GABRIELLE CROTEAU leaves a copy of "Anchors Aweigh" to anyone else who might be interested.

EDWARD ARNOLD leaves his heart to Muriel Perreault.

WILLIAM BAISLEY leaves his golden silence to Alfred Remillard who could make use of it.

ROLAND MARCHAND leaves his dancing ability to Victor Forte. It's great fun, Victor; try it some time.

ARMAND PELLAND leaves his black book of magic, the most compact notebook in the world, to Richard Guyette.

LLOYD RHODES leaves his supply of dictionary words to "Nicky" Petrosky.

JOHN TUTTLE leaves his height to all the freshman boys. They'll need it in order to follow in his footsteps.

DANIEL WESTON leaves his "boogie woogie" piano playing to Lucien LeClaire.

The following bequests are made to certain underclassmen by the Senior Class for the purpose of keeping alive the memory of the greatest class in history, the class of 'forty-five.

To ELIZABETH THAYER we leave a pair of asbestos gloves so she will not burn her hands in Chemistry.

To WILLIAM LEWINSKI we leave Hugo Meotti's title of best looking boy.

To ADRIEN MARCET we leave a white skirt and black sweater thereby making official his work as cheerleader.

To RUTH WILDE we leave a chain two inches thick and two feet long so that she can keep her pocket-book under control.

To STANLEY DEAN we leave two girls to take the place of Audrey and "Cil".

To DAVID TUTTLE we leave a fool-proof cook book. Now he can make his own cakes.

To the future seniors we leave our hundred per cent record in buying United States War Stamps and Bonds.

To the "JAUNTY JUNIORS" we leave our mischievous ways.

To the FUTURE FRESHMEN we leave our clean but scratched, wrecked, and broken lockers.

And now having made known our most generous bequests, we, on this fourteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and forty-five, in the presence of witnesses, declare this to be our last will and testament.

. . . S P O R T S . . .

AT last, sports have come back to B. H. S.! For the past two years our sports were confined to intra-mural events. This past year, however, we were fortunate enough to have cars in which to transport the basketball team and cheerleaders to all of the games. Mr. Granger managed to "line up" a seventeen game schedule in spite of transportation difficulties.

The '44-'45 basketball season began with several practice games. Our opponents came from the Woonsocket area. Although we lost most of the games, our inexperienced team showed up well against the stronger opposition.

Having learned much from this experience we started the high school season by losing two games to Cumberland. Our first real victory came when we defeated Mount Saint Charles. After this game we lost a valuable player when Gerard Gregory entered the army. In spite of this loss the team rolled ahead winning six consecutive games before being downed by Uxbridge. Our most exciting games were those played against Blackstone. Our team won both hotly contested battles.

All of the boys, both "regulars" and "subs", put everything they had into the games. However, three of them managed to score a great many points. The scoring was led by "Jack" Tuttle followed by "Chet" Lewinski and "Ted" Marchand.

Our "Jayvee" Team was comprised of students of all classes. This was their first year of basketball and the team showed a lack of experience at the start of the season. They were defeated in the first four games, but, as time went on, a vast improvement was evident and the "Jayvee's" won five of the remaining ten games. Daigle and Rhodes were high scorers for the "Jayvee's".

As a reward for their hard work the team went to the Boston Garden to see two college games. The trip was enjoyed by all the players.

A contest was held to choose a name for the team. The judges chose the name "Toppers". The winner of the contest was Marie Cooke.

The success attained by the basketball team was due to the untiring efforts and able tutelage of Coach Granger.

Baseball has been absent from our activities since '42. However, we are looking forward to having a team this year. Last year, many of the students, under Mr. Granger's supervision, started to put the baseball diamond in good condition. We intend to finish it before this season opens.

We should have a good team because we have several potential stars. We also have the necessary equipment and Mr. Hutchinson will act as coach. If we have a successful season we may be able to recapture some of the glory which was ours when we won the Tri-County Championship three years ago.

HUMOR....

Never A Dull Moment In Bellingham High School

MISS ADDANTE: "Janiszeski, what is your favorite flower?"

JIMMY J.: "Chrysanthemums."

MISS ADDANTE: "Spell chrysanthemum, Jimmy."

JIMMY J.: "I changed my mind, Miss, I like roses better."

MRS. TROLL insisted upon accompanying her husband on his fishing trip. She wasn't much bother; she just sat in the back of the boat and trailed her hand in the water. Suddenly she felt her wedding ring slip off her finger. She screamed and almost jumped in the water after it but her husband reluctantly restrained her. "You would have to come in this boat!" he grouched. "There is absolutely no way of getting that ring. The water is too deep." He continued to fish and soon hooked a large fish. They called it a day and rowed back to land. At the hotel that evening the fish that the husband had caught was served for dinner. His wife looked at the fish in disgust but took a mouthful, anyway. She had no sooner closed her teeth on the flesh when she bit into something hard. What do you suppose it was? . . . A fishbone!

"VAR" NADOLNY was walking around the school the other day with a puzzled expression on his face. He was stopped by "Chet" Lewinsky who asked what was wrong. "I can't understand it," "Var" said, "I went out with a girl last night and she said I had a silly puss. She has never been to my house, so how does she know I have a cat?"

SYMIE: "Oi, Hymie, I forgot to lock the safe."

HYMIE: "Vell, vat of it? Ain't we both here?"

EDDIE ARNOLD: "I guess I'll get weighed."

MARSHALL COWEN: "Go ahead, I've got two pennies."

IN THE AUDITORIUM

A hush, a rush, a wide stampede,
To lunch they want to go,
But when the bell rings to return,
They come back, so, so slow!

MARY: "Ye've known me for tae years noo and yet ye sit way over there as if ye wur a total stranger. Move ye a leetle closer."

ANDY: "All richt."

MARY: "A penny for yer thouchts."

ANDY: "It's gr-rand weather we'r havin'. Do ye think it's nice enough for a bit of a kiss?"

MARY: "Af course it is, ye dolt. There."

MARY: "Ye've been selent for ten minutes noo. What's rattlin' aboot in thot head of yours noo? Another kiss maybe?"

ANDY: "No, I was thinkin' it's aboot time you paid me thot penny."

The question before the class was whether "trousers" was singular or plural. The point was settled by declaring them singular at the top and plural at the other extremity.

MISS BALLOU: "Murphy, when was Rome built?"

BOB M.: "At night."

MISS BALLOU: "Who told you that?"

BOB M.: "You did, teacher, you said Rome wasn't built in a day."

HE: "How's about a little kiss, honey?"

SHE: "Can't. My lips are chapped."

HE: "Aw, c'mon. One more chap won't hurt you."

"I beg your pardon," said the fat man, returning to his seat for the second game of a double-header "Did I step on your foot as I went out?" "Yes, you did," said the injured one expecting an apology. "This is my row, then," mumbled the fat man as he squeezed by.

If Dotty Breen got to school on time that morning she would get a gold star for perfect attendance. As she hurried along with her books tucked under one arm she looked beseechingly heavenward. "Please, God," she mumbled, "let me make it on time." A few hundred yards away from the schoolhouse she again entreated God to get her there on time. As she ran through the doorway her foot caught on the threshold and she went sprawling just as the bell rang. She picked herself up and looked heavenward again, this time reproachfully. "Aw right, aw right," she exclaimed, "you don't hafta push."

POLITICIAN: "And in conclusion, my friends, I wish to state that I was born a Democrat, always have been a Democrat, and expect to die a Democrat."

HECKLER: "Not very ambitious, are you?"

An instructor was teaching a class an intensified course. Realizing that the boys were beginning to show the strain of constant study he decided to ease the situation with a rather pointless question. "If a chair has four legs, is painted white, and rolls on casters, how old am I?"

The surprised students sat dumbfounded. Then the most backward member of the class supplied the answer, 44. It was the instructor's turn to be amazed. "That's correct," he said, "but how did you know?" The student supplied the second answer, "My brother is 22 and he's only half crazy."

EMILY: "My father committed suicide last month."

EMMA: "Good heavens! How terrible!"

EMILY: "It certainly was. You should see the gas bill we got."

VAN JOHNSON (with hands over Terry's eyes): "If you can't guess who it is in three guesses, I'm going to kiss you."

TERRY MOUSSEAU: "Jack Frost, Davy Jones, Santa Claus?"

MR. HUTCHINSON: "What bill can the Senator change without consulting the senate or congress?"

DANNY WESTON: "A dollar bill."

"Your cough sounds much better this morning," said the doctor in a complimentary tone.

"Why shouldnt it?" rasped the disgusted patient. "I've been practicing all night."

A young wolf with long sideburns poured himself into his brand-new suit and ambled down to the front of the drugstore on the corner of Main and Juniper Streets just to flirt with the girls as they passed by. After two hours of batting exactly zero a male acquaintance came up to him and said, "Chum, you're beginning to look like the pages of an old book." "I don't get it," replied the wolf, puzzled. "Turned down at the corners," the other explained.

A rather small man was hauled into court charged with picking a man's pocket. The complainant was very near-sighted and didn't seem very sure of his facts. He couldn't positively identify the other man as the one who stole his watch. The judge, faced with the lack of evidence, was forced to discharge the alleged pickpocket. When the man stood there, as if he didn't comprehend the meaning of the justice's words, the judge repeated the words which dismissed him. "All right," he said, "you're free to go. You may leave. You are judged not guilty. Go on." The man still wasn't sure. "Does that mean," he asked, "that I can keep the watch?"

J. TUTTLE: "What are those marks on your nose?"

R. MARCHAND: "Oh, they are made by glasses."

J. TUTTLE: "You should learn to tilt your head back, then it would pour out easier."
